Bremerton PD Working with Bremerton School District on Report of Possible Violence

Late last night, Bremerton PD was contacted by a parent of a Bremerton High School student who reported overhearing other students earlier in the day discussing a possible violent incident being planned. The discussion was non-specific and the reporting student said they did not know the other students.

Bremerton Police immediately contacted Bremerton High administrators, and spoke directly with the student as well as other students who may have had information. Officers viewed security video from the previous day as well to attempt to identify who may be involved.

This morning, the High School Resource Officer from BPD as well as other officers and administrators, are on site. Parents and students have been notified by the district.

As detectives continue to work on the information, our department is not receiving any information to indicate that the threats are substantiated or credible. We do appreciate the student making the report, and we will continue to follow up.

“The school district and department have worked together as a team, as we always do in these types of incidents,” said Bremerton Police Chief Steve Strachan. Strachan added, “We have been all over this from the first report, and the district is balancing our aggressive follow up and investigation with an abundance of caution and good communication with parents and students.

The School Resource Officer, district administrators, additional uniformed officers, and detectives are present at the school today to increase security and conduct follow up. If any further information is obtained, we will release that as soon as possible.
