Sign Family

Large

sign types are used to address high volume traffic, on wider roadways or at higher speeds, without slowing.

BASIC sign types are for high speed areas where finer details will not be appreciated

GROUND GRAPHICS support the legibility and experience of named pathways as their own destination signs are used to address mixed modes of travel (i.e. people walking and biking) from moderate distances, such as across a smaller street or plaza. Users are expected to take the information in stride as they continue their journey.

Medium
