The city’s three-mile urban bridge-to-bridge trail includes stunning mountain views, serene Puget Sound vistas, access to other areas and a veritable scavenger hunt of local lore.

1. All-accessible Playground
   A grassroots effort culminated with the construction of the kids area at Evergreen-Rotary Park in 2014.

2. The Face
   Artist Robert “Bib” Larkin Chillar’s impromptu sculpture — he just happened to be at the park one day in 1969 when a truck dumped cement — was pointed out from the north side of Smith Cove.

3. The Guns of War
   40mm saluting guns of the USS West Virginia memorial, Bremerton’s World War II memorial along with bronze plaques listing Bremerton service members who lost their lives in the Great War.

4. 9/11 Memorial
   One of the first in the nation, Bremerton’s version has beams from the World Trade Center, limestone from the Pentagon and sand from the field in Pennsylvania where United Airlines Flight 93 crashed.

5. Tree Canopy
   Through a tunnel of trees you’ll find some of Bremerton’s oldest homes dating back to the early 20th century.

6. Bremerton waterfront
   From the bridge, admire stunning views of Sinclair Inlet, the Bremerton Marina and the USS Turner Joy destroyer and modern ship, perhaps best known for its role in the Gulf of Tonkin incident that precipitated the Vietnam War.

7. Whitey Domstad Park
   The posture-stamped park, named for a former mayor offers sweeping views of Fort Nisqually and sits atop one of the most advanced rainwater collection systems in the nation.

8. The old fort and oak tree
   As Americans had a fort near the Manette Bridge, marked by a plaque, and an approximately 150-year-old oak tree stands there today.

9. Art Walls
   The city’s “legal wall” allows anyone with paint to add their art to a colorful multi-story concrete retaining wall. The site is once home to the Maple Leaf Tavern. Bremerton’s longest running bar, until it was demolished in 2014.

10. Cliff Canyon
    The Ian term-linned crew has cut a powerful pathway to Puget Sound with strongest flows during winter months.

11. Madrona Trails
    A dense forest of Arbutus Menziesii — a meandering tree only found growing from Northern California to British Columbia — is just north of the Bridge to Bridge Trail off lower Wheaton Way.

12. Corrormants Cove
    Visit Lower Rota Vista Park, where you’ll find the largest colony of pelagic cormorants in the state living under the Warren Avenue Bridge.

The original Manette Bridge.

Warren Avenue Bridge
OPENED: NOVEMBER 25, 1919
The bridge, designed by an engineer, was pre-stressed concrete slab style, and was 1,707 feet long and spanned over the Port Washington Narrows at 80 feet. Steel decks at midspan quickly became a popular nesting spot for black-winged birds called pelagic cormorants. The bridge cost $5 million to build.

OPENED ORIGINALLY: JUNE 21, 1900;
NEW SPAN OPENED: NOV. 10, 2011
A green steel truss bridge existed for more than 80 years over the Port Washington Narrows. Bremerton and Manette. Before that, there was a ferry operating between the two communities. A $6 million replacement bridge was made with what are called hammerhead girder that sit atop eight columns.
